PART TWO

CHAMBERS OF CERTIFIED PUBLIC ACCOUNTANTS AND SWORN-IN CERTIFIED PUBLIC ACCOUNTANTS

Chambers, Qualitative Characteristics and Limits of Activity

ARTICLE 14. Chambers of Certified Public Accountants and Sworn-in Certified Public Accountants are established separately. Chambers of Certified Public Accountants and Sworn-in Certified Public Accountants are professional organizations regarded as legal entities with the qualities of public institutions, and are established for the objectives of meeting the needs of the members of the profession, facilitating their professional activities, providing the development of the profession in compliance with common benefits, maintaining professional discipline and ethics, and providing the prevalence of honesty and mutual confidence among the members of the profession and in their relations with the entrepreneurs.

The term "chamber" used within the context of this Law implies the chambers of Certified Public Accountants and Sworn-in Certified Public Accountants, to be established separate from one another.

Chambers may not be involved in operations other than their establishment objectives.

Establishment of Chambers

ARTICLE 15. A chamber is established in centers of provinces where at least 250 members of the profession are available and in towns where at least 250 members of the profession are available in the region (except the towns within the region of the metropolitan municipality). Separately established chambers of Certified Public Accountants and Sworn-in Certified Public Accountants are referred by the name of the provinces or the towns in which they are established. However, in order to establish a chamber in a town, at least 100 professional members should have written application.

In provinces where sufficient number of performers of the profession are not available, and therefore relevant chambers are not established, the affiliation of the said region to the nearest chamber, or the decision as to whether or not a regional chamber would be established, is taken up by the Union. The Ministry of Finance is then notified on the relevant decision.

The chambers acquire legal personality, upon informing the Ministry of Finance through the Board of the Union.

The non-member performers of the profession may not deal in professional activities. Decisions concerning the termination of the duties of the responsible organs of the chambers who have activities other than their objectives and the election of new organs, are adopted by the local Court of First Instance following the demand of the Ministry of Finance the Local Prosecutor by following a simple judgment procedure and the law suit is concluded within three months.

In case of the termination of the duties of the organs specified in the fifth paragraph by the court, a total of five members are assigned among the Board of the Chamber for the Chamber's Board, and among the Board of the Union for the Union's Board in order to assemble the organs to select the organs terminated thus, in compliance with the procedures specified in this Law. The election is concluded by the five persons assigned as such. During the period of assignment, the said five persons are considered to have the same authorizations and duties as the organs terminated and are held equally as responsible. The new organs to be elected in compliance with the provisions of this Paragraph complete this assignment periods of the previous organs.

The assigned organs of the chambers are responsible for implementing the decisions regarding the operations of the organs of the Chamber, adopted by the Minister of Finance as the competent authority for certification in compliance with the provisions of this Law. The provisions regarding termination, specified in the aforementioned paragraphs are equally applicable to the organs of the chamber, should the said organs fail to implement the decision of the Ministry, the decision of the administrative court on the cessation of the execution, or the execution process; or should they refuse to implement the relevant decisions without a valid legal reason, or should they adopt a new decision which implies a persistence in adherence to the previous decision, or should they refuse to fulfill the procedures obligated by the Law, albeit the warning of the Ministry.

The organs terminated thus are replaced by new organs in not later than one month. The newly elected organs complete the assignment periods of the previous organs.

The penal responsibilities of the members of the organs which have been terminated are reserved. The dispositions of the organ, which have caused their termination, are null and void.

However, in cases when a delay in any such action is considered as a drawback in the circumstances as national security, public order, avoidance of commit a crime or continuance of a crime, the activities of the chamber can be dismissed by the governors of provinces. The decision concerning dismissal should be submitted to the judge in charge within twenty-four hours. The Judge should announce his/her decision within forty-eight hours otherwise this administrative decision abolished automatically.

Provisions regarding dismissal and termination of duties are not applied to the General Assembly of the chamber.

PART FOUR

MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS

Principles Regarding the Election of the Organs of the Chamber and the Union

ARTICLE 40. Elections concerning the organs of the Chambers and the Union are based upon secret vote system and the procedures of the election are held under the superintendence of the lawsuit, based upon the following principles:

Three copies of the list disclosing the names of the members for the chamber and union elections are handed under to the head of the election committee of the district at least 15 days before the General Assembly where the selection to be made, along with a notification disclosing the agenda, date and place of the meeting, and the relevant information regarding the second meeting to be held, should the required majority not be accomplished during the first one. In the existence of more than one election committees within one district, the election committee to be assigned for the task is determined by the Higher Council of Election. The meeting dates are required to be determined until a Saturday evening by taking into consideration the other issues included within the agenda and the elections should be organized to be held on the following day (Sunday), between 9:00am and 5:00 pm.

The judge provides the necessary approval to the list determining the names of the members joining the elections and to other issues previously mentioned, after revising all the relevant forms and documents. The approved list and other relevant matters are publicly announced for a period of three days by putting on display on the notice boards.

Objections to be made to the announced list during the period of display are examined by the judge and a decision is reached within two days by latest.

Lists thus finalized and other details pertaining to the meeting are ratified and delivered to the concerned chamber or union.

The judge assigns an election committee which consists of a chairman and two members who are employed in the public sector and who are not candidates in the elections. Likewise, three reserve members are also determined in the absence of the chairman to the election committee, the most senior member presides over the said committee.

The election committee is responsible from the performance and organization of the elections in compliance with the principles determined by the Law, and the counting of ballots and remains in charge incessantly until the election process and the counting of ballots are completed.

Should more than four hundred members exist, a ballot box is placed for each four hundred voters and a separate committee is established for each ballot box. Materials and equipment to be utilized in the elections are furnished by the election committee of the district; the locations where the ballot boxes will be installed are determined by the judge.

Members can become a candidate independently or from the lists they constitute among themselves. Separate ballot papers are prepared for Board members and Union's General Assembly representation. Candidates from the group lists are listed under the related group name, but independent candidates are listed separately in the ballot papers. Ballot papers are prepared to indicate that which group or independent candidate will be voted for which board member, they are duplicated showing square boxes to tick placed beside the names of group names and independent candidates; they are used after sealed with election committee of the district seal. Votes are used by means of signing the boxes beside the group or independent candidates' names. The voting processes based upon secret voting and public ballot accounting system. The member of the profession whose name is not included within the list may not vote. Voting is held following the confirmation of the identity of the voter through the presentation of a special identity card provided by the chamber of the relevant government institution and the signing of the space provided in the list beside the voter's name. The votes are used by inscribing on papers bearing the seal of the election committee, to be provided by the chairman of the district election committee separately for each election, and by inserting the sealed papers into the sealed envelopes. Votes not presented on the sealed papers or envelopes are considered as invalid.

The names of the groups and independent candidates in the elections are written one under the other and align with the valid votes. The number of votes is divided into first one, then two and then three...and go on until they reach the number of the members of that board and Union's General Assembly representative including reserve members. The obtained shares and received votes of independent candidates are ranging in descending order. Principle and reserve members of the Board and principle and reserve representatives of Union's General Assembly are allocated according to groups and independent candidates' order size of the numbers. For the last member or representative, if the votes are equal, they are allocated by drawing lots among themselves. Allocation of member of Board and representatives of Union's General Assembly for groups is made according to the order in ballot paper.

Members can only serve in one of the boards of directors, supervisory and disciplinary boards.

At the end of the election process, the results of the elections are determined by minutes and are signed by the chairman and other members of the election committee. If more than one ballot box is, employed in the elections, the separate minutes are compiled and merged by the judge. The temporary results of the elections are made known to the public by displaying a copy of the minutes at the election location. The ballots used at the elections and other documents are delivered to the election committee of the district, along with a copy of the minute box, to be preserved for a period of three months.

The procedures implemented throughout the election process and the objections to be raised against the election results are enquired by the judge on the same day and a binding decision is reached. In the aftermath of the deadline for the objections and the adoption of final decisions, the judge announces the final results in compliance with the aforementioned provisions and notifies the union and the concerned chamber on the election results.

Should the judge decide upon the cancellation of the election due to the determination of an irregular or unlawful implementation; he is required to determine the Sunday on which the renewal of the election would be held, and to notify the union and the concerned chamber in not less than one month and not more than two months. On the predetermined date, only elections are held and the procedures regarding the elections are carried out in compliance with the other provisions of the law disclosed in this article.

The wages of the judge, the chairman of the district election committee and the members are determined by the provisions disclosed in the Law concerning the Basic Principles of the Elections and the Registration of the Voters. Allowance for such wages and other expenses pertaining to the elections are provided from the budgets of the Union and the concerned chambers.

Crimes to be committed against the chairman and other members of the election committee are penalized in the same manner with the crimes committed against the government officials.

Persons, who have not complied with the measures implemented by the judge and the election committee regarding the election process, receive disciplinary penalties pursuant to the Law according to the degree of their crimes.
